Americas Q1 highlights

- The Functional business in the Americas had a strong start to the garden season with good progress in several key accounts
- Net sales grew in the School, Office, and Craft category as well as in the Garden category, excluding the divested container gardening business
- Net sales in the watering business decreased year-on-year, as Fiskars exited from unfavorable sales agreements
- The turnaround of the watering business is progressing according to our plans, and we are leveraging our expertise in the garden category
- English & Crystal Living sales followed their seasonal pattern starting with a higher weight in Q1 compared to respective sales in Europe & Asia-Pacific and with higher profitability
- Challenges due to the changing retail environment at one of the main customers for English & Crystal Living in the U.S. continued, impacting net sales
- The Outdoor business suffered from weaker demand in the knife and tool product category, resulting in a year-on-year decrease in net sales. In addition, challenges in the distribution channels impacted the result.

* Using comparable exchange rates and excluding the acquired English & Crystal Living business and divested container gardening business net sales in the Americas increased by 0.9% in Q1 2016
